aubade '72
dominican college
blauvelt, new york

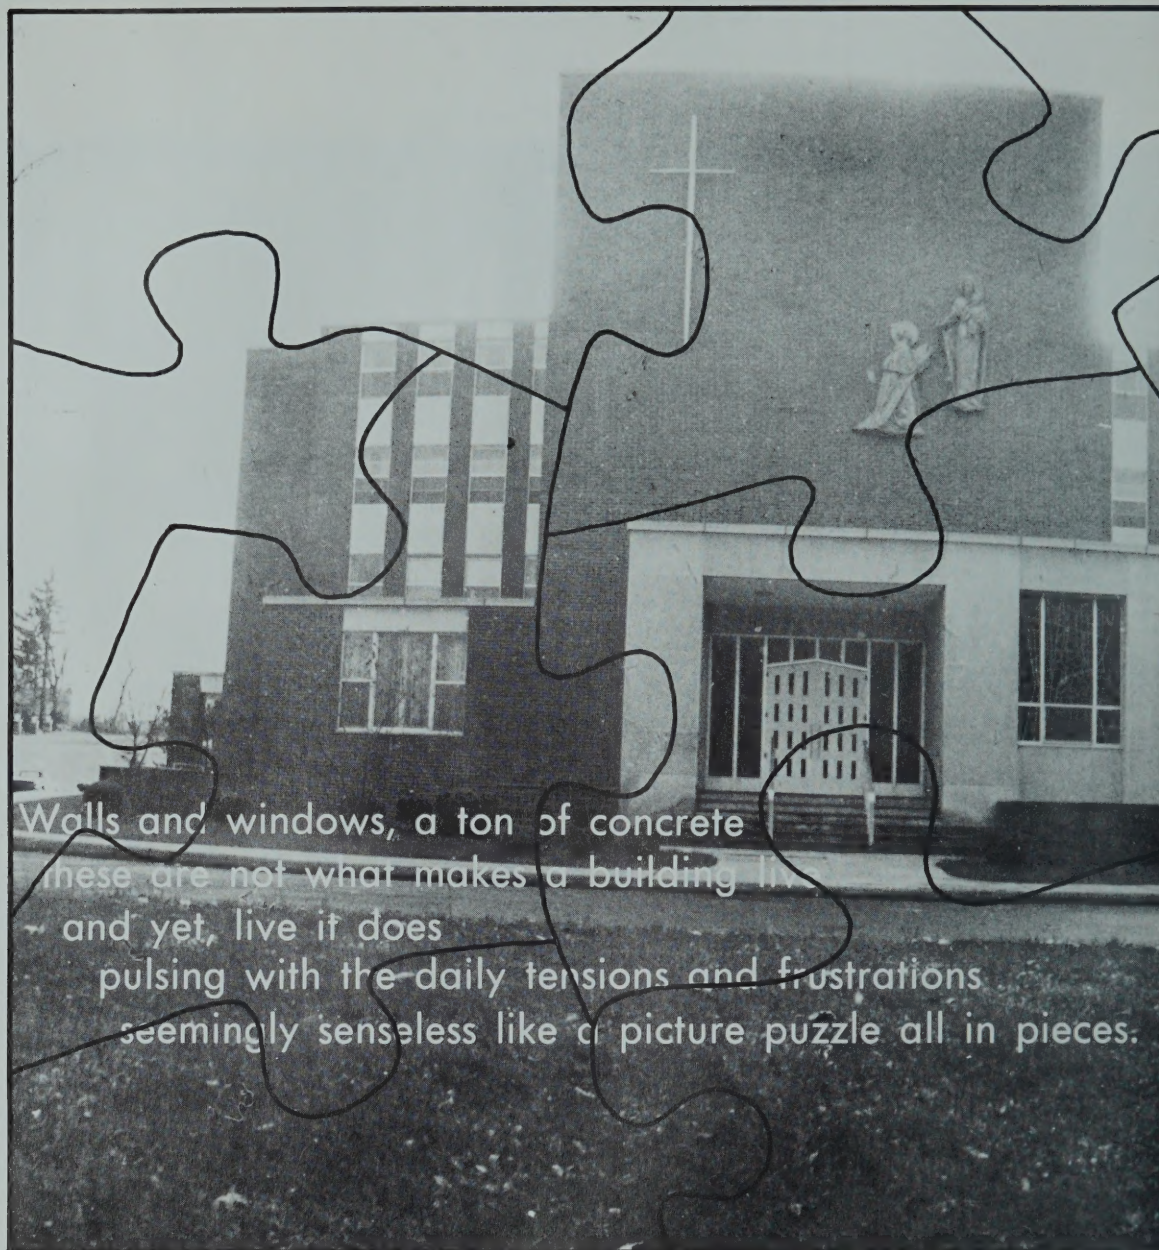

We came from different places, worlds apart and somehow when we came, we came together we came with different beliefs and attitudes but somehow as we lived and grew, we came together

MAKING SENSE of such a remarkable happening is difficult in the few lines available and so we prefer to tell you throughout this Aubade '72 by presenting ourselves as pieces of a large and intricate puzzle

We feel the world to be so intricate, so complex and ourselves to be so small . . .

but in these moments of smallness and insignificance we remember that the puzzle would not be solvable or complete without us; without you.

Watch the pieces falling together filling an empty building with a life that is.

The puzzle paints a changing-scene — evolving in time each of us with our jagged edges do in this special time 1972 interlock to form the picture DOMINICAN COLLEGE.

ADMINISTRATION

AND

FACULTY

Education — the process of making sense of a puzzling world learning to discriminate the many shapes and hues that form that world.

Educators are a part of that large puzzle guiding and influencing students so through questioning and searching all the puzzle pieces can interlock and come together.

Sr. Natalie Casey has been a dedicated administrator of our college for five years. Her tireless efforts to make Dominican College a unique and worthwhile place for all of us are only matched by her sense of awareness and interest in the well being of D.C.'s students.

In recognition of her outstanding qualities as administrator, Sr. Natalie was awarded the Sr. Rose Aquin Distinguished Administrator Award by the N.Y.S. Federation of Foreign Language Teachers. We, too, would like to express our gratitude to Sr. Natalie for her unceasing devotion to D.C. and its students.

UNDERCLASSMEN

The door has been opened — they walk into a world of patterns patterns, like pieces of a puzzle, that don't fit together at first weaving dreams that tell of themselves trying to put it all together.

Years of growing and changing learning and moving forward help to put the puzzle together help to find yesterday is today's memory and tomorrow is today's dream.

People, People,
People . . .

Freshmen

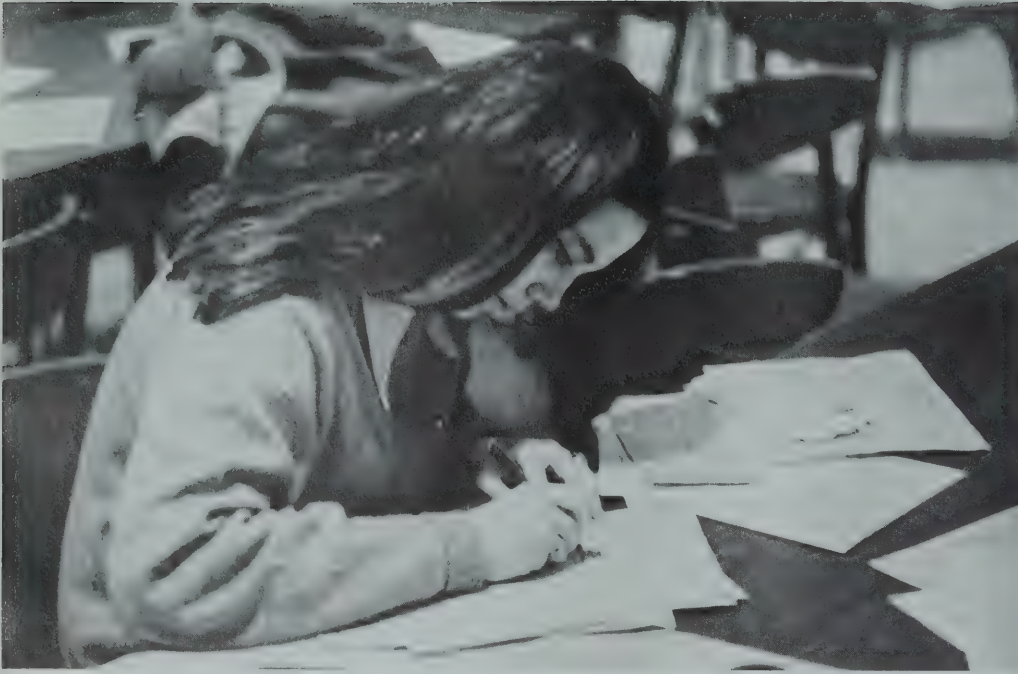

Beginning . . .
a few small steps on what seems an endless road . . .

a new schedule

a new routine

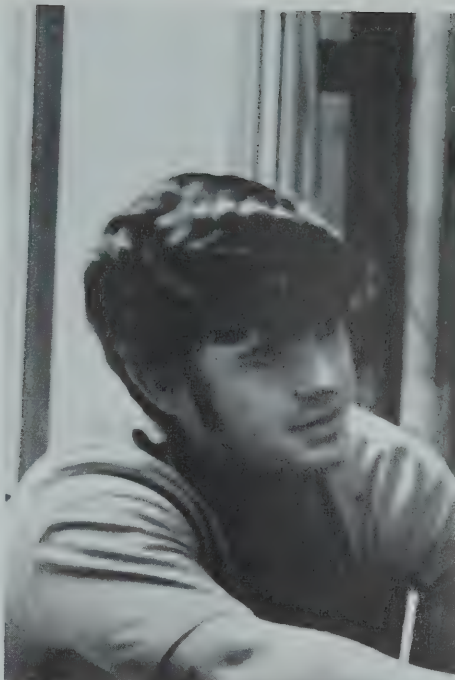

Becoming a college student.

Having taken another step along the road . . .

Sophomores

can begin to see the end.

Juniors

The struggle has been difficult but . . .

around one more corner lays the end — Senior Year.

Taking a step toward greatness making the pieces of the puzzle fit together bridging the gaps and filling in the spaces by people coming together.

Having lived and learned well having laughed and loved much having been an integral part of the whole — and now — bringing all of this to others this belongs to the SENIORS.

For all that has been THANKS
For all that will be YES

Crossing a bridge to people sometimes frail and at times strong moving ever closer together the patterns that are at once organized being interested, involved these lead to ORGANIZATIONS.

Common interests and unique abilities pull together the more and more complicated puzzle pieces
and as the puzzle grows so does the pattern.

To thee, Dominican College
Our minds and hearts we raise,
Your motto of Truth we honor,
Your lofty ideals praise.
The bright torch of your teaching Illumines the path we trod.
Through thee, Dominican College,
We strive to know and serve our God.

The world today is a challenge
To the minds and hearts you train.
Your counsel: "Give unto others - E'er faithful to Truth remain."
These maxims we will honor Though ever the way be hard.
Through thee, Dominican College,
We'll grow e'er nearer to our God.

Sr. Jean Marie,

Many thanks for all you have done for us in the past few years when as Dean you guided and helped us through D.C.

Much success in all
you do in the future.

THE STUDENT BODY

Puzzling pieces these that have flown in all directions but finally came to rest — MAKING SENSE in this special time 1972.

But what if our joys of today are empty? what if the excitement was as superficial as a carnival
Palisades Park closed that summer the paint, so garish and lively had faded by winter the carousel was mute and the stirrups hung empty off sagging, wooden horses no shouts,
no squeals of fright,
no whine or click or grate of wheel on rails Were you ever young with me?
was this time real or did we just pretend to be young the way the park pretended to be gay and just as one amusement ended, did another?
did we squander our time, our love or our joy?
Should we have held back, and saved our laughter or our tears? Will we need them later?
But reason tells us that each moment must be held and kept and then let pass Remembering the best and loving it — the worst and learning from it.
